DEMOLISHED AUTO—A battered automobile parked near Lawson's Auto Wrecker Service on Rouslog Street in Bay St. Louis is the vehicle in which Geraldine Manuel, 44, and her daughter Anne Marie Castriotta, 12, both of 331 Third St. in

Clermont mother, daughter killed in one-car accident

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A Clermont Harbor woman and her daughter are dead as the result of a one-car accident Wednesday night at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 607. Carl Banderet, Hancock County coroner, Thursday said Geraldine Manuel, 44, and Anne Marie Castriotta, 12, of 331 Third St. both apparently died instantly from multiple-head and internal injuries suffered in the mishap.

Trooper Homer McKnight of the State Highway Patrol in Gulfport Thursday said an accident report filed by Trooper Houston Dorr states Manuel "lost control (of the car she was driving) and ran off the road."

McKnight said the report indicates Manuel was driving east on US-90 and upon reaching a sharp curve just before the Hwy. 607 intersection her automobile ran off the right side of the road, struck an embankment and flipped over on its roof.

Dorr spotted the overturned car evidently just after the accident occurred at about 7:30 p.m. while patrolling in the area, McKnight confirmed. Banderet said Chief Don McIntyre of the Waveland Fire Department responded to the scene with the Jaws of Life to free the victims from the wreckage.

Also assisting at the accident scene were Sheriff Ronald Peterson and Deputies Orsella (Cookie) Sams and Stanley Hamilton, all of the Hancock Sheriff's Department, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Variell of the East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, Banderet reported.

The coroner added Castriotta was a student at St. Clare Catholic School in Waveland.

Bay Police monitoring Main Street parking

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Bay St. Louis Police are going to keep a close eye on illegal parking on the city's Main Street, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Williams said, "I have instructed my officers to ticket anyone not properly parked on Main Street. The parking areas are clearly marked."

"Motorists who park in such places as in front of the post office against the curb or blocking a driveway can expect a ticket. This even means if they let their motor running and run into the post office to mail a letter", Williams added.

Another area of concern since the renovation of Main Street has been completed are the one-way directions on Gex and Cue Streets.

Williams stated, "Gex and Cue Streets are one-way and motorists are to use them in the directions designated only."

The chief said as a matter of a fact, Section 63-3-907 of the Mississippi Code says, "...Parking should be at the right hand curb except where angle parking MAIN—Page 3A

Eckerd's broken into

By BREARD SNELLINGS
Eckerd's Drug Store in MarketTown Shopping Center was broken into early Friday morning, according to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams.

According to Williams, "the store's alarm went off at 1:35 a.m. and patrolmen Tom Pustay and Tom Ralph were on the scene at 1:36 a.m."

"The combination of the alarm and the quick response by the patrolmen scared the perpetrators off before anything was stolen," said Williams.

The patrolmen found that a piece of ceiling tile had been knocked down, and that entry had apparently been made into the store through the air-conditioning unit, as one filter was torn and another was missing.

A pair of gloves and a flashlight were found on the floor of the building.

"Whoever did it somehow escaped, probably while the patrolmen were on the roof," said Williams.

In another unrelated incident, Richard Nephew of 351 State St. in Bay St. Louis was picked up by Bay St. Louis police and booked by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department for allegedly attacking his brother, Tyrone Nephew, with a tire tool.

Nephew is in Hancock County Jail, while his brother was taken to Hancock General Hospital and transferred to Singing River Hospital in Pascagoula with a skull fracture.

The incident happened Thursday night.

Highest recorded jobless rate report in Hancock

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's current unemployment rate is the highest yet recorded for the area by the State Employment Service.

Ian Shearer, employment service labor market analyst in Gulfport, Friday said Hancock's jobless rate for February reached 12.9 percent.

He said the unemployment rate has never been that high in Hancock since the state began recording county-by-county figures "in the 1960's."

Shearer reported he did not know exactly what year the state began recording the employment rate.

The only time Hancock's jobless rate neared such a high level was in November, 1977 when the county experienced a 12.8 percent unemployment rate, the analyst noted.

The high 1977 rate resulted when the Saturn booster rocket testing program ended at the National Space Technology Laboratories, but Shearer said the current unemployment figure reflects a statewide trend.

He noted Hancock's rate represents an unusual situation because the number of employed civilians increased along with the unemployed.

In addition, Shearer reported "an unusually high" number of Hancock residents employed outside the area filed claims here which contributed to the high rate.

Hancock's civilian labor force increased by almost 200 from January to 9,630, but only 90 more people found work in February, the agency figures show.

The number of unemployed in the county increased by 200 to 1,240 during the same period, the report indicates.

The county's January unemployment rate was 11 percent.

Alcohol related arrests overflow Hancock jail

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County jail's population increased to 39 Saturday morning because of 11 alcohol related arrests within a 10-hour period, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said, "From 10 p.m. Friday until 8 a.m. Saturday, six persons were arrested for DUI (driving under the influence) and another five for public drunkenness."

"On Saturday and Sunday, March 12 and 13, in a 12-hour period 19 persons were arrested for DUI and five for public drunkenness," Peterson added.

The alcohol related arrests were made by state highway troopers, sheriff's deputies, and Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen.

Peterson reported the last weekend arrests were mostly made by state highway troopers.

The sheriff stated that most persons with alcohol related arrests only spend a few hours in jail and are bonded out.

In other police activities, Peterson said, "Deborah McAdams, 29, Norwood Village Apartments, Gulfport was arrested Thursday at NSTL by T.P. Naylor, senior investigator with Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the Mississippi Highway Patrol and two New Orleans Police Officers for alleged fraud and forgery."

Fire drill is successful

By BREARD SNELLINGS

A mock explosion and fire were staged at the Hancock County Jail Friday as part of a planned fire drill in which "victims" were rescued by the Bay St. Louis Fire Department.

Representatives from Hancock

General Hospital were also on hand to take part in the drill. Fire drills have been held at the Hancock County Jail in the past, but such drills have taken on added significance since the destructive, life-taking fire at the jail in Biloxi last year.

Sixteen students from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady's Academy volunteered to act as victims in the explosion-fire. They were rescued through the back door of the jail. In a real accident, this is where the prisoners and sheriff's department people would be.

Emergency teams of firefighters acted swiftly and the entire drill was completed in just under 15 minutes.

The students pretended to be suffering from burns, smoke inhalation or heart attacks, and lay prone in the jail, while firefighters carried them out by stretchers.

Meanwhile, other firefighters rushed around the back of the jail with the big firehose, and still others worked on the building's roof.

Also on hand was Mobile-Medic Ambulance Service.

Counting students, policemen and others, there were some 42 "victims" rescued during the 15-minute drill.

John Rexter, president of Mobile-Medic Ambulance Service, said "there is a need for better control at the scene, and better communication, but as far as the drill goes, we used a predetermined plan which has been used before and it works."

Rexter added that the drill was a learning experience, and in anything you'll find small hitches, but the drill was real successful.

Alphonse Sheppard of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department drags a fire hose around the corner to the back of the Hancock County Jail during a planned fire drill Friday afternoon, in which some 42 "victims" were rescued. In the background by the fire truck are Capt. Mike Williams and volunteer Robert Fairchild (left) and firefighter Gary Maurice (right). (Staff photo by Breard Snellings).

BURGLARY ATTEMPT—Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams said a burglary attempt early Friday. A burglar alarm apparently scared the perpetrators as police made an immediate response and nothing could be found missing according to Williams who said there were only damages to the ceiling. McLeod Water Park gets twelve campsites Twelve new campsites with water and electrical hook-ups, picnic tables, hibachi grills and trash receptacles are being added to McLeod Water Park, bringing the total number of camps to 22.

"This work will be completed by late summer and will surely be an asset in attracting visitors to McLeod Park during the 1984 World's Fair," said L.J. Breaux, Hancock County director on the board of the Pearl River Basin Development District.

"Financing for these campsites was made possible through a 1978 Bond Issue Fund of the PRBDD," explained Norton Bass, who also represents Hancock County on the district board.

The Hancock County Park Commission has supplemented these funds to assist in payment of the design and engineering work.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will also assist the district by clearing roads to the campsites and building parking pads for each site. Located on the scenic Jourdan River, the natural beauty of McLeod Water Park is enhanced by moss-laden live oak trees that grow throughout the park.

A two-story pavilion overlooking the river, a nature trail with elevated boardwalks, and a lighted softball field complement the camping and picnic facilities at McLeod.

Fishermen find this an ideal spot, with two fishing piers and a boat launching ramp.

Information on the park can be obtained by calling the park manager, Arvel Wall, at 467-1894. The Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Hancock County Park Commission are responsible for operation and maintenance of the park.

The Pearl River Basin Development District constructed McLeod Water Park in 1977.

Waveland wastewater treatment facility may be best in state

By BREARD SNELLINGS

Waveland Mayor John Longo presented evidence to the Waveland Board of Aldermen Wednesday that gave credence to his statement that the City of Waveland has the best wastewater treatment and disposal system in the state and one of the best in the country.

Longo, who is president of the aldermen as well as president of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District, presented figures from several nearby cities to make his point. Waveland broke away from the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater District at the end of last year, in order to form its own separate district.

The move was criticized by the Bay St. Louis City Council, which is a part of the new district, when the wastewater district asked for $2 monthly individual increases in sewerage rates to handle district funding.

"I have figures here which show that the monthly increase for the same wastewater service for the cities of Ocean Springs, Biloxi and Moss Point, was in the neighborhood of $35 a month," Longo told the aldermen Wednesday night.

Alderman Barbara Rappold then read letters from the wastewater management districts of these cities to substantiate this.

According to the figures, the rates for Moss Point have gone up an average of $43,000 a month, while the increase at Ocean Springs has been $40,000 a month. Biloxi had a similar figure, with the figures for all three cities breaking down to an increase of about $35 a month for sewerage service.

Moss Point and Ocean Springs are in the new Jackson County Regional Wastewater Management District and Biloxi is in the new Harrison County Regional Wastewater District.

All three were formed at about the same time as the Waveland district, but they stayed affiliated with the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater District.

Longo explained that the plants at all three cities are no older than the one at Waveland, which went into operation in December, 1975.

"Those other cities have let their facilities run down, while Waveland has kept repairs up," said Longo. I believe these figures show that Waveland has one of the best wastewater treatment facilities in the country, and I definitely believe we have the best facility in the state."

In other business, David Treutel of Treutel Insurance Agency in Bay St. Louis, told the aldermen they could increase their insurance coverage and still save $123 over last year's total bill. Last year, the City of Waveland paid $48,901 for some $3 million worth of insurance.

Treutel presented an insurance cost breakdown to the aldermen that showed money could be saved by deleting $38 of content coverage from the new library and $1,495 of comprehensive and collision coverage for city vehicles more than six years old, and increasing the deductible of physical damage to $100 per item thereby saving $300, and also by changing the fleet (city vehicle) policy to a company policy providing reduced premiums on all coverage and saving the city $1,000.

At the same time, coverage could be increased by raising the limits of liability on the automobile fleet policy to $500,000 from $300,000; increasing firehouse coverage from $25,000 to $50,000 and contents from $15,000 to $25,000; increasing library coverage from $50,000 to $100,000; insuring the new water tank for $200,000 and increasing content coverage for city hall from $75,000 to $100,000.

Treutel showed that the increase in cost would be $2,790, while the decrease would be $2,913.

The aldermen moved to make the insurance changes.

Also, Paul Vegas, engineering manager at Borg-Warner, told the aldermen that Borg-Warner would formally dedicate its one-year-old facility at Port Blenville on March 30 at 2:30 p.m. and that Governor William Winter was expected to attend. The aldermen said they would have a representative there.

Also, the aldermen moved to write to the L&N Railroad complaining of all the trash along the tracks in Waveland.

Also, it was pointed out that the Sidelines Club Fair would be April 29-30.

Problems with flooding along several natural ditches in Waveland was brought up, and it was pointed out that residents had blocked two ditches and that small culverts would have to be constructed on Alken Road and Hoffman Lane.

We have heard complaints from several residents with family members buried in St. Mary's Cemetery of having flowers removed and vandalism to grave plots. This seems to be something that happens in our area quite often, and it is beyond our understanding how someone can be so cruel.

It seems they would leave the dead alone. We have a feeling if ever someone gets caught by a loved one tampering with a grave site, they may have as the old saying goes 'hell to pay'.

We urge all citizens to report any acts of vandalism to any grave site to police immediately.

This has been designated as National Wildlife Week and features the theme of 'This is Your Land, Public Land Belongs to All of Us'.

In keeping with the National theme, Mississippi Governor William Winter has designated this week as Wildlife Week for our state.

As many of you know, Mississippi has over one million acres of land managed for wildlife, and many thousands of acres for recreation.

We know a lot of wildlife educational kits have been distributed to our schools in the state and we hope our teachers will use the materials.

Once our wildlife is gone, there are no replacements, and in our time alone, many species of wildlife are no longer with us.

We noted several workers from the Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds re-working the basepaths on Thursday at the McDonald Field.

This indicates it will not be too long before Little League, Tee-Ball, Babe Ruth and softball games will be going at full force.

Several youngsters can be seen about the area tossing balls getting ready for the summer action.

Kite flying was a big activity for many of us when we were young, but this activity seems to be getting smaller each year.

We have noted several kites flying this year, but not too many.

When we were kids, it seemed we always had a kite in the air on weekends in March.

The fun then of course was also in making the kites, today most are factory built.

Mike Ladner, Hancock County service officer stopped by the office Friday to tell us that he would be attending a Veterans Service Officers School in Jackson on March 24 and 25.

Ladner said when he returns he will visit all veterans organizations in the county and inform them of the latest changes.

As many of you know, there have been many changes made in recent months on veterans benefits.

Wildlife Week marked in U.S., Mississippi

Celebration of the 1983 National Wildlife Week begins today, featuring the theme "This is Your Land, Public Land Belongs to All of Us."

Governor William Winter has signed a proclamation designating March 20-26 as Wildlife Week in Mississippi as well.

The event marks the 46th year of this award-winning national education program, which is co-sponsored in Mississippi by the National Wildlife Federation and the Mississippi Wildlife Federation.

The theme of National Wildlife Week this year focuses attention on the importance of public lands to the citizens and wildlife of our nation.

Americans are part-owners of 740 million acres of public land—an area the size of India, the world's seventh largest country.

In Mississippi, more than 1.1 million acres of public land are managed for wildlife and thousands of additional acres are also available for public outdoor recreation.

America's public lands encompass many of the most scenic and widely-used recreation areas in our nation and contain a vast wealth of minerals, fossil fuels, timber, and grazing acreage.

These lands provide essential habitat for many wildlife species, with one out of every four big game animals living on federally managed land. The goal of National Wildlife Week is to make Americans aware of their responsibility to this valuable and irreplaceable resource. It is a special time in which to focus our attention on the delicate balance needed to provide for the needs of wildlife, the demands for outdoor recreation, and the economic needs of our country.

National Wildlife Week encourages the proper management and wise use of our public lands for present and future generations of people and wildlife.

"This is Your Land, Public Land Belongs to All of Us"—the more we learn about these lands, the more fully we can enjoy their benefits, participate in their wise management, and appreciate their importance to the wildlife and citizens of our nation.

The Mississippi Wildlife Federation is spreading the word about our public lands by distributing over 3,000 Wildlife Week Education Kits to public, private, and parochial schools across the state.

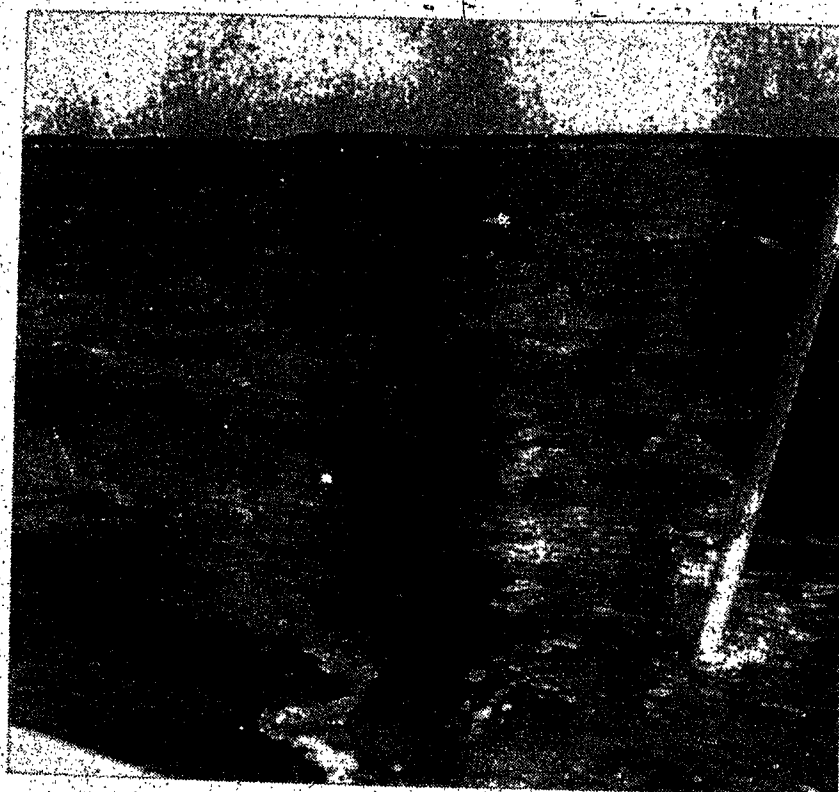

If you would like more information on National Wildlife Week, contact the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, P.O. box 1814, Jackson, Ms 39205, 353-6922.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN:

People tend to litter where litter has already accumulated. Throwing trash from an automobile—be it a glass bottle, a metal container, or paper products—is like saying to someone else: throw yours, it's alright.

BOATERS BEWARE!—The photo at top and bottom are of boats which have sunk between the mouths of Bayou Cadet and Pearl River and are only visible during extreme low tides. Boat engines, hulls and trawls have been damaged by objects such as these in the fishing area. Robert Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director has marked the hidden obstacles with lengths of white plastic pipe to try and warn boaters. The obstructions need to be totally removed and we hope whomever is responsible will take the necessary action. (Staff photos by Ellis Cuevas).

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

TECHNOLOGICAL EDUCATION

Senator Thad Cochran says Mississippi and the nation need to significantly improve the technological teaching and job training necessary to meet future demands and opportunities.

He said that education and incentives for mathematics and science teachers must be encouraged, and that students should be challenged to take the necessary math and science courses to adequately prepare for jobs in "the era of high technology which is already with us."

Senator Cochran's remarks came at a breakfast meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, the education honorary society, in the Capital City.

The Senator noted that he is sponsoring legislation to provide new incentives for students to study math and science in college, to help meet the shortage of qualified elementary and secondary teachers in those fields, and to provide grants for outstanding teachers to seek advanced training.

He said that recent statistics show that nearly one-fourth of the math teaching posts in the nation are unfilled, and that in 1981 about one-half of the new math and science teachers hired by high schools were not certified in those fields. During the past decade there has been a 79 percent decline in students preparing to teach math, and a 66 percent dropoff in those studying to be science teachers.

"This critical trend must be reversed," the Senator commented, "if our nation is to meet the technological challenges of the future." He noted that by 1990 more than eight million highly specialized technicians will be needed nationally, but that current programs can meet only 10 percent of this projected demand.

Earlier in his weekend trip to the state, Senator Cochran was the featured speaker at the Founders Day program of Piney Woods Country Life School. The Senator was presented the 1983 Dr. Laurence C. Jones Distinguished Service Award, in honor of the school's founder, for his service in the field of education.

Senator Cochran praised the forethought and dedication of Dr. Jones in founding Piney Woods in 1908, and the valuable educational opportunities it has, and continues, to provide young people."

FISH PRODUCTS INDUSTRY

Senator Thad Cochran has introduced legislation designed to aid in major expansion of the United States fish and fish products industry. The legislation would include fish and fish products under both domestic and export programs managed by the Department of Agriculture.

"The U.S. fish and fish products industry is a fast expanding industry that, with the help I'm proposing, has tremendous potential for growth. Congress has long recognized government should assist in the development of agriculture commodities and it's time the fish industry got some of the same help," Cochran said.

Cochran said by including fish and fish products under USDA programs, producers could expect to expand their export markets through use of Commodity Credit Corporation export credits, and the domestic fish market could be bolstered during periods of depressed prices through purchases of surpluses.

The U.S. has registered a trade deficit in fishery products for over 35 years. Although the U.S. exports about $1 billion in fishery products each year, the import to export ratio is approximately three to one.

"There are vast and virtually untapped markets that can be developed by the industry with the help of market development programs offered by our Agriculture Department. My bill will assist in the natural progress of the industry's development," Cochran said.

Cochran estimated the quantity of fish and fish products shipped to both developed and developing countries could double within a few years.

"By allowing fish and fish products access to USDA programs, the door is opened to unite fisheries development with agriculture development," Cochran said. "Through this legislation, Congress can help launch another means of cultivating world markets."

Commerce Day program slated

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its second annual "Commerce Day" Tuesday, April 12, according to Dick Kosbab, chamber education committee chairman.

"The purpose of Commerce Day is to give high school junior class students from the six local high schools the opportunity to spend the day in a normal work environment at the establishment of participating chamber members and local public or quasi-public agencies," said Kosbab.

"And the chamber feels this experience will assist these students in career choices and employment seeking," he added.

Students from Bay Senior High, Hancock North Central, Coast Episcopal, Our Lady's Academy, Trinity Christian Academy and St. Stanislaus High Schools will participate in the day's events.

Sixty chamber members have agreed to participate, and the schools are now being contacted for placement of a total of 200 students, who will select their choice of businesses they would like to visit, said Kosbab.

The students will be with the participating chamber members from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Commerce Day. This will give the students exposure to a normal daily business as a business community or governmental organization.

ENERGY ANSWERS

From the Mississippi Energy Extension Center

With soaring utility bills for heating and cooling flattening billfolds and diminishing lifestyles, the energy conservation staff at the Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation has beefed up its efforts to be even more helpful and informative this year by offering advice to homeowners, apartment dwellers, businesses, school administrators, and many others as to what each individual can do to reduce heating and cooling costs and, in turn, conserve energy.

"Our goal is to double the number of energy contacts with the MDET Energy Answerline," says Clara Fortner, energy program specialist for the department.

"We have energy experts on staff to answer energy-related questions and to provide free energy conservation materials and measures which can be utilized to reduce the amount of money spent on utility bills."

Q. How do household appliances rate as energy users? Are they improving or staying about the same?

A. Household equipment specialists say that appliances are still bargains to buy and operate. While the cost of general goods and services went up 119 percent during the past 20 years, the cost of appliances went up 36 percent.

Appliances account for about 8 percent of the total household energy use (if you don't include the water heater, which consumes up to 20 percent by itself).

One of the most impressive examples of the improving energy efficiency of small appliances is the refrigerator-freezer. Framed-in insulation and more efficient compressors have resulted in a 50 percent increase in efficiency of this type of appliance.

For more information about energy conservation, contact Fortner, MDET Answerline, 510 George Street, Jackson, MS (601) 961-4733 or toll-free 1-800-224-8311.

Student part-time work experience often valuable

Part-time work experience can be one of the most desirable ways young people can prepare themselves for full-time careers.

"Part-time work experience for young people may sometimes seem as if it leads nowhere, but that does not have to be true," said Dr. Ann Jarratt, a 4-H development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Any time tasks are performed for a fee, work experience is accumulated. Having a background of work experience is very desirable when a young person goes to apply for that first real job."

Mrs. Jarratt said the job application process can be very exciting for young people until they get to the section on the application form that asks them to list previous job experience.

"Most people who experience this sinking feeling probably have had work experience but think that since it was part-time it doesn't count," she said.

"Part-time work experience counts for a lot. It can be a young person's stepping stone to the work they really want to do full time."

Mr. Jarratt, who counsels 4-H Club members about careers, offers young people a few tips on ways to insure that early work experience works to their advantage when they are seeking full-time work. Her advice includes:

— being dedicated to doing the best job you are capable of doing the entire time you are doing it.

— practicing good work habits, such as arriving on time prepared to do the job. Make every moment count. Make sure the employer benefits from all of your ability all the time you are on the job.

— keeping written records including the name and address of your employer; exact dates of employment; rate of pay received, and a thorough description of your job. Don't depend on your memory for these details.

— following employer's directions carefully. You may think that your way is better than the employer's, but you are being paid to do it as instructed. If your opinion is asked, be prepared to give it in a positive way.

— "Another stepping stone to that future career is volunteer work or work that does not have a monetary pay day," Mrs. Jarratt said. "Volunteer work does bring with it many benefits other than money."

Like paid employment, it provides work experience which can be listed on a resume or job application form. It also gives a person the opportunity to learn and practice good work habits.

"Volunteer work has at least one advantage over paid employment—it is generally easier to get," she said.

Mrs. Jarratt said one of the best things about both volunteer and part-time work is that it helps people find out whether they enjoy a particular kind of work before they invest years and dollars in training.

Montgomery to lead in two hearings

Congressman G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery of Mississippi, chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee, will lead a group of eight congressmen to Mississippi for two oversight hearings, in Jackson and Biloxi on March 29 and 30.

The Jackson session will be the first hearing ever conducted by a congressional committee in Mississippi Capitol.

Subjects on the March 29 hearing in Jackson will include the admitting practices and quality of health care delivered by the Veterans Hospital; the handling of compensation and pension claims, housing loans, educational benefits and the health care of former prisoners of war.

Among those testifying before the Oversight Subcommittee, which Montgomery chairs, are the veterans organizations' state commanders, the directors of the VA Regional Office and VA Medical Center in Jackson, and the president of the Veterans' Affairs Commission of Mississippi.

Accompanying Chairman Montgomery in Jackson will be the committee's ranking minority member, Congressman John Paul Hammerschmidt (R-Ark.); Congressman Elwood Hillis (R-Ind.); and Congressman Lane Evans (D-Ill.).

The hearing will be at 9:30 a.m. in Room 216 of the New Capitol Building, High Street. A press conference will be held at 9:15 a.m. the same morning.

A subcommittee hearing in Biloxi March 30 will look into the status of VA's ongoing $88.5 million construction project at the Gulfport and Biloxi Divisions of the Biloxi VA

Medical Center. Montgomery said this major project is the second largest in VA's current medical construction budget and will provide extensive modernization and renovation of the two divisions.

Another subject of the Biloxi hearing is the need for providing veterans' educational benefits in order to enhance recruitment and retention within the Armed Services.

Witnesses at the hearing will include State representatives of several veterans organizations, the director of the VA Medical Center in Biloxi, a representative of the Air Force Sergeants Association, and several enlisted Air Force personnel.

Accompanying Congressman Montgomery in Biloxi will be Congressman Bob Edgar (D-Pa.), Congressman Bob McEwen (R-Ohio), Congressman John Paul Hammerschmidt (R-Ark.), Congressman Elwood Hillis (R-Ind.), and Congressman Lane Evans (D-Ill.).

The hearing will be at 9:30 a.m. in the City Council Room of City Hall, 216 Lemeuse Street. A press conference will be held at 9:15 the same morning.

"This is the first oversight hearing the Committee on Veterans' Affairs has held in Mississippi since I became chairman in the 97th Congress," Montgomery stated.

"We will be taking a close look at how these veterans' benefits and services are administered and also how we can improve the welfare of our state's almost 240,000 veteran population."

"If a veteran in Hancock County wishes to discuss anything with Congressman Montgomery while he is visiting in Biloxi I urge you to go there and do so," said Mike Ladner, Veterans' Service officer (467-2100).

STEPHEN COCHRANE AND LEAH PEPPER

Safety tips offered for spring gardeners

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

The home gardeners are at it again. Millions of American householders are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to the American scene.

The Mississippi State Medical Association recommends gardening as good therapy and good exercise for almost everyone. It is ordinarily a safe and sane hobby, but gardening entails some hazards to health and safety, most of which can be avoided.

* If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually.

* Gardening often brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, and sharp tools. Wash the scratch with soap and water and apply an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash out impurities. Deeper cuts require medical attention. Be sure your tetanus boosters are up to date.

* Power tools, particularly power mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. They save many an aching back, but they are sometimes dangerous. Study the instructions that come with the mower, and follow the safety precautions. If in doubt, ask a mechanic about the hazards of power tools.

* Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds, are useful adjuncts to gardening. These, also have inherent hazards if improperly or carelessly used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

* Bees, wasps and spiders are out for the spring season, too, and now and then one of them may sting you. For most of us, a sting is painful and causes temporary swelling, but it isn't serious. If you are allergic to insect stings, ask your doctor about desensitizing injections.

Onion growing tips offered

Onions are an important part of so many meals that almost all gardeners try to grow some.

Onions aren't hard to grow, but gardeners frequently wind up frustrated about their lack of success in producing large onions. Many of these failures can be traced to a poor start.

Onions are cool season vegetables, which means they need to be grown in cool weather. They have shallow roots and they won't tolerate dry soil.

A lot of confusion exists among gardeners about how to start onions and which type to grow. Gardeners should first decide what type of onion they want to grow, including large, dry bulbs, green salad onions or small dry bulbs or whether they want white, yellow or red onions.

Green salad onions are the easiest of all onions to grow. They are started by planting small dry bulbs called sets or by setting out onion transplants.

Onion sets are nothing more than small onions that were produced the previous year by planting onion seeds very close together and crowding the plants. Gardeners need not be concerned with producing their own sets since they are widely available.

For salad onions, the sets should be planted about one inch apart and covered with about one inch of soil. As the green tops push through the soil, additional soil can be pulled to the plants to produce a longer white stem. Green onions can be harvested in just a few short weeks after planting the sets.

The onion plants that are normally sold as tied bundles also can be used to grow green salad onions. Space the transplants an inch or two apart in the row. They can be harvested after they've grown to a usable size.

It's possible for gardeners to use the same planting of onions for both green salad as well as dry bulb onions. When sets or transplants are spaced an inch or two apart, green onions can be harvested early in the season and the remaining plants will produce bulbs.

Gardeners should be sure to thin the plants by using every other plant as a salad onion until the remaining onions are about four inches apart.

Bulb onions are a little harder to grow than green onions. This is mainly because they are in the garden for a longer period of time and require more attention.

Gardeners may have noticed that all the onions in a planting begin to form bulbs at about the same time whether the plants are large or small. This is because the plants respond to the day length and temperature and when exposed to the right combination of temperature and day length, bulbs begin to form.

The secret to growing large bulbs is to grow as large a plant with as many leaves as possible before the bulb starts to form. This is best done by growing onions in a loose, fertile soil and keeping the soil moist. It is also necessary to use sets or transplants of a recommended onion variety such as 'Crystal Wax' or 'Granex'.

Gardeners frequently ask if it is necessary to pull the soil away from the enlarging bulbs. This practice can severely reduce yields by injuring the shallow root system. Another practice frequently used by gardeners that is harmful is to bend the tops over to hasten maturity. This frequently leads to the onions rotting. If it is necessary to hasten maturity, this can be done by lifting the onions slightly with a turning fork to break some of the roots.

Onion plants grown from sets or transplants that shoot up a flower stalk should be used as green onions because they will not develop into good dry onions.

Multiplier onions are small dry bulbs. When they are planted they form a cluster of green onions that will dry down to a cluster of small onions. They can be used as salad onions when green or as small onions when dry.

For more information on growing onions and other vegetables in your garden this year, read the Garden Tabloid available at your local County Extension Office.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

The General Mills study of 1975 stated that "According to the men and women interviewed, debt means falling behind in payments, not simply owing money..." It seems that many Americans have become so accustomed to owing money that they don't consider it a debt until there is a problem paying it back!

What kinds of problems do people have with debt? Perhaps the most frequent problem is simply too much debt, and this happens in several different ways. Here are two common pitfalls:

Using Credit as an Alternate Source of Income. When people run out of money, they use credit cards or charge accounts to continue buying. The balance on these accounts gets higher each month. Only the minimum payment or a partial amount of the total balance is paid each month. When the account reaches its approved limit, a request is made to increase the credit limit. If the creditor won't increase the credit limit, the debtor applies for other credit cards.

Eventually, the minimum payments plus the interest on all these accounts gets to be a major expense which cuts even further into the month's cash. At this point, people frequently start missing monthly payments or paying less than the minimum amount due on each account. By the time this stage is reached, people frequently owe as much as $2,500 or more just on their various credit cards and charge accounts.

They usually have installment loans as well. The total indebtedness (excluding mortgage) of people seeking help is frequently about equal to their annual income.

Solutions: The use of credit cards and charge accounts must be curtailed completely and immediately. Living expenses should be cut to the minimum and all available funds should be put toward repayment of the credit accounts.

Setting Up House. This problem is common with young married couples. Most of these young people, when single, lived at home or in furnished apartments. After marriage, the couple may move into a larger apartment, or perhaps buy a house or trailer. Then they buy furniture, appliances, a color TV, perhaps a stereo system, all on installment loans. Generally speaking, what they are trying to do is start out with all the same conveniences and comforts that it took their parents ten years or more to acquire.

For some couples, this debt load, in itself, is enough to cause problems.

In cases where the loans are still fairly new and little of the balance has been paid, the problem may have no easy solution.

St. Monica's Guild hears report

By JOE PILET
Publicist

St. Monica Guild
Getting to 'know' Coast Episcopal Schools was the theme of a program presented Monday, March 14, for members of St. Monica Guild, Women of Trinity, when the group met in the Shadow

Lawn home of Mr. and Mrs. J.
P. Malloy.
Headmaster: Peter
Tsikoglous, accompanied by Paul Montjoy, Tom Shellnut, and Linda Gilmore, board members, also Myrna Jordan, principal of the elementary school in Bay St. Louis, contributed information concerning the high school located in Pass Christian as well as the Bay Elementary.

Tsikoglous extended an invitation to visit the schools and said: "Our greatest need is to attract more students."
He spoke highly of the qualifications of the school's staffs as well as of the physical plants.

Mrs. J. Randolph Buck,
president of the St. Monica Guild, said: "We now have a list of the schools' needs and at our April meeting we will discuss how St. Monica might assist in meeting some of these needs."

St. Monica Guild through the years has been a booster and supporter of the Coast Episcopal School System
because it affords students the opportunity to develop under a refined and gentle atmosphere with emphasis on harmonious and well-correlated activities and studies, Mrs. Buck added.

Assisting Mrs. Murray were co-hostesses Mmes. Frank Andersen and Mrs. James Malloy.

During the social hour following the program, coffee and punch served from a dairily set tea table concluded the meeting.

Waveland church hosts southeastern district

The ministers of Church of Our Lord Jesus in Waveland hosted the International Ministerial Association Southeastern District Conference recently under the leadership of Pastor Charles Rush, Co-Pastor Timothy Rush, Elder Herlon Lumpkin and Carl Hall.

The church provided meals cooked and served by the ladies of the church, a church spokesman reports.

The ushers were directed by James Creel.

The Waveland church was founded in the late 1960's by the late Rev. Fenton Rush, his wife and family.

The church has grown from a small frame building to a large sanctuary. A fellowship hall and kitchen was recently added which seats and provides food for more than 100, the spokesman adds.

The church is now in the process of adding an additional education building, the spokesman reports.

"The church is very active in this area in helping needy families, and counseling adults and youth," the spokesman states.

The association was founded in 1955 by ministers of the Apostolic faith.

Binding together primarily for fellowship in strengthening of the faith of our Lord Jesus, we have as many members in foreign countries as in the United States, the spokesman notes.

Missionaries from Haiti, Russia, Israel, Mexico, Denmark, Saudi Arabia, and Nigeria attended the Waveland event.

Chairman of the Southeastern district is Rev. Gurnado Brown, who is active in church supported activities, the spokesman says.

Officers were elected including Charles Rush who was re-elected to a three year post on the association board.

Rev. Leray Powell and his church members in Kiln provided food and fellowship.

The church welcomes visitors and offer many services to people in need, counseling, and prayer for the sick.

For more information telephone Rush at 467-3962.

Church services include Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., evening worship at 7 p.m., Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., and Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Catholic Church Parish News

By B. C. KELLER

Events are often not what they seem. Hopeless circumstances may actually hold great promise. Today's scriptures challenge our usual perspectives and open our eyes to the ways of faith and gospel justice.

Kindly remember in your prayers Latonya Nicole Pieras, daughter of Roman Pieras Jr. and Vernadine Dedeaux, and Marcus Anthony Alexander, son of Sharon Alexander, who were baptized at St. Rose last Sunday.

Congratulations to our Confirmation class who attended a retreat at the Seminary last Thursday under the direction of Fathers Theriault and Kelley.

The Parish Council decided to make the dinner following their Confirmation Mass on Sunday, April 10, a parish family affair.

Any family of the parish wishing to participate is asked to bring a covered dish for this event to be held in our cafeteria. Contact Mrs. Marilyn Williams, chairperson, 467-2464.

Today's second collection will be the American Bishops' Annual Overseas Appeal to fund overseas development programs sponsored by the Catholic Relief Services and other church-related agencies.

These programs are vital in helping the world's poor overcome the hardships of poverty and hunger. Let us join together in reaching out to those in need.

Today at 10 a.m. religious instructions will be given for our children attending public school, kindergarten through sixth grade. The Confirmation and Pre-Confirmation classes will meet at the same time. The Confirmation Class will also meet on Monday and Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. 11th and 12th graders will meet on Monday at 5:30 p.m.

Our Semipro Basketball Tournament is in its final weekend at the Seminary Gym. Games begin today at noon. Zone C of our parish worked the door and the concessions stands last weekend, and the Catholic Youth Organization cleaned the gym. Their next meeting will be on Monday, March 28, at 7 p.m.

The Hancock County Branch N.A.A.C.P. will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. in our cafeteria. New members are welcome.

Our Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

On Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. the George Hicks family will perform the service part of the liturgy at our Lenten Family Mass. The Little Zion Baptist Church Choir will do the singing.

The Concerned Citizens of Hancock County will hold its regular meeting this Thursday at 7 p.m. in our cafeteria. Important topics for discussion will be: Community Needs, Citizen Involvement, League of Women Voters, and a Report on the Small Cities Rehabilitation Program.

Next Sunday Knights and Ladies Auxiliary of St. Peter Claver will attend the 7 a.m. mass in a body. After the 7 and 9 a.m. masses the Altar Society will sponsor its Palm Sunday breakfast in our cafeteria. Donations: adults $1.75, children under $0.75.

This Friday at 7 p.m. a special mass will be celebrated in the Cathedral Church in Biloxi to begin the Holy Year in the Diocese of Biloxi. All are welcome. We shall also have a special mass here at St. Rose on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

TAX SAVINGS IN THE NICK OF TIME!

SAVE TAX DOLLARS AND PROVIDE FOR YOUR RETIREMENT WITH A HANCOCK BANK IRA!

Even as you read this message, time is ticking away toward April 15. But Hancock Bank has a plan that can help you cut the taxes you'll pay this year and provide for your retirement.

It's the Hancock Bank Individual Retirement Account, and with it, you can earn interest and defer taxes until your retirement. An individual can set aside up to $2,000, and a working couple can set aside up to $4,000... tax free! And you can do this even if you're covered by another pension plan.

Ask your Hancock representative how an easy-to-open IRA can delay tax day. But hurry... time is running out! And don't forget: right now, your IRA can be eligible for 1982 tax benefits.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

—John 10:10

"In the past God spoke to our forefathers through the prophets at many times and in various ways, but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed heir of all things, and through whom he made the universe. The Son is the radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of his being, sustaining all things by his powerful word. After he had provided purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty in heaven. So he became as much superior to the angels as the name he has inherited is superior to theirs." (Hebrews 1:1-4 NIV)

The Hebrew epistle begins with the most beautifully constructed and expressive sentence in the New Testament. In fact, the writer remains anonymous to the 20th century mind, as he is so full of his subject that omits the customary greetings along with his name.

"In the past God spoke to our forefathers through the prophets..."

A God who speaks to men his will is the distinguishing mark of true religion. God has spoken to men in the past. He has never left Himself without witness.

He spoke by means of the prophets; this refers especially to Moses and those who succeeded him. And God in his speaking, spoke in a variety of ways. He spoke here through prophets and priests; in visions and in dreams; in symbols and in natural phenomena; in mighty deeds of history and in written words.

"...but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son..."

But the earlier speaking, cannot compare with the later. It was preliminary, destined to be superseded from the outset.

These last days denotes the final phase of history, brought on by the entry of the Son into the world and continuing until the consummation of all things. In His Son God speaks His final, satisfying word to men.

But who is this Son? What are his privileges and powers? The author now lists a number of His distinguishing marks.

"...whom he appointed heir of all things, and through whom he made the universe..."

Through the Son's agency, the universe came into being. It has, therefore, always been His. He is the sole, rightful owner of all things.

The dignity of the Son, however, depends not just on world-making. It is involved in the eternal order of things and is best seen in the Son's relation to the Father. He like no other reflects the glory of God.

"...sustaining all things by his powerful word."

The Son is then seen as both creator and sustainer of the cosmos. The idea is not that the Son like a weight lifter holds the universe up, but rather that He is responsible for its providential government.

"After he provided purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty in heaven."

In order to deal with sin He had to come to earth and become man. And so he did, achieving for humanity a thorough purification of sins on the cross for all who will accept Him on His terms.

And so He shares rulership from the heavenly throne with His Father. Being distinct from the Father, He is nonetheless near Him, at His right-hand side. The phrase "right hand" indicates a place of power and highest honor (I Kings 2:19; cf. Ps. 45:9) and sat down implies dignity and dominion.

"So he became as much superior to the angels as the name he has inherited is superior to theirs."

The Son became superior to the angels when He took His seat at God's right hand. Prior to this, while in human form, His position was a little lower than the angels. The Son's eternal existence and nature are not here in view (as in vv.2,3); rather His work of redemption and His consequent exaltation.

Perhaps this paragraph can best be summed up with the words of God the Father Himself at the time of Jesus' baptism and the beginning of His earthly ministry.

"This is my Son, with whom I am well-pleased; Hear ye Him!"

Jesus Christ must be our only authority in religion. Or no one else can claim the title in the fullest sense of the word, "Son of God."

SPRING REVIVALIST—Rev. Bill Stroud, pastor of Southside Baptist Church in Jackson, Tenn., will serve as Spring revivalist at the Waveland First Baptist Church, corner of Jeff Davis and St. Joseph Streets, Monday through next Sunday, March 21-27. The public is invited to the services at 7:30 p.m. each evening, according to Rev. Tommy Thompson, Waveland pastor.

Our Lady of The Gulf designated as Holy Year indulgence center

Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze of the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi will celebrate a Mass marking the beginning of the Holy Year proclaimed last December by Pope John Paul II.

The Mass will be in Nativity BVM Cathedral at 7 p.m. on Friday, March 25, coinciding with the opening of the Holy Year in Rome.

In announcing the Holy Year to commemorate the 1950th anniversary of Christ's death, the Pope said, "It is a challenge to contemporary man, to today's believers so that they may understand more deeply the mystery of the Redemption, may allow themselves to be drawn into the extraordinary movement of attraction towards the redemption."

Holy years have traditionally been a time of pilgrimage. The first Roman holy year was in 1300.

Blocked from the Holy Land when the Christian Crusades failed to reconquer it, pilgrims went in greater numbers to the tombs of Peter and Paul in Rome.

During holy years a plenary indulgence is granted to those who make a pilgrimage to Rome, receive the sacraments of penance and the eucharist and pray for the Pope's intentions in four specified major churches.

The Pope has announced that those who do not go to Rome may gain the indulgences by doing the same things in a church designated by the local bishop.

Bishop Howze has designated five churches where the Holy Year indulgences may be received. They are: Pascagoula, Our Lady of Victories; Biloxi, Nativity BVM Cathedral; Gulfport, St. James; Bay St. Louis, Our Lady of the Gulf; and Hattiesburg, Sacred Heart.

In addition, those who by reason of health cannot visit one of the designated churches may gain the indulgences by making a pilgrimage to their local parish church, receiving the sacraments and praying for the Pope's intentions. Bishop Howze has announced. The Holy Year will be celebrated from March 25, 1983, through April 22, 1984, with the theme John Paul chose for the 1983 World Synod of Bishops: Reconciliation.

And the jubilee year points the way to the Great Holy Year of 2000, towards which the Pope is directing the church.

NEWS OF ART

The Vatican Collections: The Papacy and Art

More than 230 works of art, ranging in date from Egyptian and classical antiquity to the 20th century highlight the first major art exhibition ever to be sent abroad by the Vatican, now at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City through June 12.

"The Vatican Collections: The Papacy and Art," is already being hailed as the major art event of the year. The works of art in the exhibition have been drawn from the vast holdings within the Vatican, not only from the Vatican Museums but also from the Apostolic Vatican Library, St. Peter's Basilica, its Grotto and its Treasury, and the papal apartments. Included are paintings, sculpture, textiles—numerous famous masterpieces from artists ranging from Leonardo da Vinci to Henri Matisse.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is the first stop for the collection on its three city tour of the United States, sponsored by Philip Morris Incorporated, through a $3 million grant to the Metropolitan Museum of Art as the show's organizing museum. From New York, it will go to the Art Institute of Chicago where it will be on display from July 23 through October 16. It then travels to the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum of The Fine Arts Museum of San Francisco where it will remain through February 19, 1984.

The works that were chosen for this exhibition not only give an idea of the range and magnitude of the artistic resources housed in the Vatican, but also reflect the history of papal patronage and show the way the popes have commissioned, collected and preserved works of art from the time of old St. Peter's to the present day.

The exhibition is divided into five sections that trace the growth of the Vatican collections. Section One includes works collected by the popes from the time of Sylvester I (314-335) to Julius II (1503-1513). Among these early works, from the original basilica of St. Peter's in Rome, are examples of the liturgical furnishings and decorations used during the building's 1200 year history.

Section Two chronicles patronage and collecting from Nicholas III (1277-80) to Alexander VII (1655-67). It was during this period that the popes summoned the best artists of the day to create the splendid mural decorations of their palaces and of the Sistine Chapel; it also marked the arrival of the famous classical sculpture, the Apollo Belvedere.

Section III is devoted to the creation of the Vatican Museums, from Benedict XIV (1740-58) to Pius VII

The famous Apollo Belvedere—a Roman copy of 130-140 AD (after the Greek original in bronze ca. 330 BC).

This bronze disk, dating from the fifth century BC, was found in 1829 near the ancient city of Tarquinia.

(1800-23). The first public museum to be formally established in the Vatican, the Museo Sacro, features a great variety of objects of historical religious significance ranging from early Christian gold-glass roundels to liturgical artifacts in all media. Another museum created during this period was a museum of classical antiquities, including a great many splendid examples of Roman statuary discovered during the extensive excavations carried out in Rome during the 18th century.

Section Four continues the development of the Vatican museums under Gregory XVI (1831-1846) and Pius IX (1846-78). Four new museums were created during this period mainly featuring the antiquities here discovered during excavations in Rome and Southern Etruria.

Section V documents new directions in patronage and collecting from Pius XI (1922-39) to Paul VI (1963-78). It features a collection of modern religious art and ethnological art, reflecting the desires of 20th century popes to embrace the whole world.

It's a unique exhibition that's giving millions of Americans a chance to see works of art that have been a magnet and a source of inspiration to artists from all over the western world for centuries.

A 28-year-old Pass Christian resident was charged last week in a Louisiana federal court related a tale of misadventure involving a marijuana smuggling operation in which he was involved. The man, who was charged with racketeering, was charged with threats on his life.

According to Associated Press reports from Lake Charles, La., a federal judge charged Charles Bates, a dekanhead with a marijuana smuggling operation, Monday, that the alleged organizers were "professional" at international dealing.

Bates said he was captured by a Columbian man during one of two aborted attempts to pick up a load of marijuana from a gambler Charles Robertson in Florida. Supreme Court Justice John Marshall McCain.

Robertson, 70, is charged with conspiring with McCain to smuggle 500 pounds of marijuana into the United States.

McCain jumped bail and fled the day before his scheduled trial in Louisiana, and is now in custody since.

Bates' testimony came in day of trial reopened with attorneys asking U.S. District Veron for a mistrial, on grounds federal prosecutors had told witnesses in private during while they were on the stand.
